CHARLESTON, S. C., Nov. 23, 1865.

General Sickles' official announcement assuming command and the departure of General Gillmore was a surprise to all but a few intimate friends. The new commander arrived here almost incog., and, taking rooms at the Charleston Hotel, remained so quiet that nearly everybody believed him to be simply on an ordinary Rumors of the restoration of martial law and the reassembling of the convention by order of General adopted by the Legislature and the evident disposition to shoulder the war debt of the State have met with the decided disapprobation of the President, and that the State will have to undergo another course of purification. The people are in a state of great excitement, believing they have fairly complied with all the terms that honor and humanity can ask from a conquered people.

THE GARRISON of the post at present consists of the Forty-seventh regiment of Pennsylvania Veteran Volunteers, Fifty-fourth York Veteran Volunteers, Thirty-third United States colored troops, and one company of the Thirty-fifth United States colored troops. Ayer fourteen The majority of Governor Aiken over Mr. Whaley, the rival andidate with the highest number of votes, is three hundred and eighteen. The Governor's vote will be increased, it is believed, by at least three hundred from the parishes around the city, with the prospect of a respectable vote from the interior. It may, therefore, with reasonable certainty be taken for granted that he is selected. If so, it is a pleasing triumph to the Unionists, who had almost despaired of seeing one of their number elected.

General Elliott will probably carry his own district, General Elliott will probably carry his own district, Saufort, and possibly receive a considerable vote in Solieton and Barnwell; but, with the large vote already a favor of the Governor, his election is considered beyond question. McClenaghan, of New York, and Lucius R. Paige, of Massachusetts.

This high and distinguished body of Masons did much work, their meetings having been suspended during the war. Among other things of interest to the craft we may notice that they appointed Ill. Bro. From twolve to fifteen bundred negroes returned yesterday on a steamer with their former owners to the old plantations on Edisto, John, Wadmalaw and James Islands. MANISE DEPASTERA

The steamer Cosmopolitan, Captain Crocker, which arrived here from Florida yesterday, brought intelligence of the loss of the schooners Harriet B. Tyler and Joel G. Sweet, the former of Philadelphia, bound from Galveston to New York, and the latter bound from New York to Apalachicola. Both vessels at the time of the disaster, which occurred on the 23d of October, were about eight miles from Cape Carnaveral, Florida. The cargo of the Tyler consisted of seven hundred bales of cotton, sixty-seven bales of wool, three thousand hides and sixteen bales of calf skins. The Sweet bad a cargo of lumber. All the officers and crew of both vessels took to the small boats, and succeeded in reaching Jacksonville, Fla., in safety, with the exception of Captain James McGee, of the Tyler, who unfortunately was drowned when but a short distance from the shore. The steamer Cosmopolitan brought most of the survivors to this city. A generous subscription of eighty-four dollars was made up by the officers and crew of the ascenser for the sufferers, who were wholly destitute. The following are the names of the officers and crew of the married B. Tyler:—

The convention of colored people now in session in this city has been marked by a display of ability and decorum that has won for its members great credit from even those who see in such gatherings only some ominous forebodings of insurrection and bloodshed. The assaions are held in Zion church, and are very largely attended. Delegates from nearly every portion and district of the State are in attendance. The brated colored Major Delaney, formerly of General Saxton's staff, is the leading spirit of the convention. His addresses have been distinguished for their excellent advice and sound practical sense. Several United States officers have attended the sittings of the convention and taken part in the discussions. The address of the committee announces as the objects of the convention:

— First.—To promote the interests of the colored race, Sec. nd.—To devise means for the improvement, elevation and protection of the bifek nges.

Third.—To encourage and develop the industrial resources of the state.

The following resolutions, after an interesting discussion, were adopted:

Highway Robbery and Threatened Mur der by Negroes Near Savannah, Ga. The Savannah Republican of the 25th inst. gives an account of the arraignment on the 24th, before Colonel Sickles, of a squad of negroes charged with attacking and robbing a Mr. Holtzelaw, of that city, and threaten-ing to take his life on Sunday last. Mr. Holtzelaw, in ing to take his life on Sunday last. Mr. Holtzelaw, in company with another gentleman and a colored man, was proceeding to a neighboring plantation for the purpose of exhuming the remains of a deceased son, when he was met by an armed crowd of negroes, who offered him to turn back. He and his companions did so, but they were followed by the crowd. They had not proceeded far when they were stopped by the negroes, and Mr. H. was compelled to give up his platel and seventy dollars in money. His companion was also compelled to give up all the money on his person. The negroes then took a vote as to whether they should murder Holtzelaw, but were persuaded not to do so by an old man among them. Colonel Sickles has ordered them to be tried before a military commission.

TERRIBLY INJURED BY AN EXPLOSION.—Yesterday morning, about five o'clock, Mr. Hugh O'Reilly, fifty-eigh years of age, residing at 638 Second avenue, had his right hand most frightfully shattered by the accidental explo-sion of combustible material used in the manufacture of torpedoes. Mr. O'Reilly, who will lose the use of his hand, was conveyed to Bellevue Hospital by the Twenty-first precinct police.

MILITARY COURTESY. - Companies B and H, of the Seventy-first regiment, who visited Boston last August, on their return from their delightful trip resolved to present their kind escort and friends, the Boston Fusiliers, with a testimonial in the shape of a set of resolutions, handsomely engressed and framed. The frame which is to contain the resolutions will be seven feet high and five feet wide, and will have in a double rowed circle around the resolutions the vignette of every member of the two companies who went on the excursion.
As no pains or expense has been spared in getting the testimonial up, it promises to be one of the handsomest affairs of the kind that has ever left the city, and while it reflects creditably to the good taste on the excursionists it cannot fail to be a source of great gradification to the worthy recipients. The picture, though delayed, is rapidly approaching completion, and will be exhibited on Brondway for a short time, preparatory to its being sent to its destination.

THE EIGHT HOUR SYSTEM.—Some German workingmen The Eight Hour System.—Some German workingmen and trades associations, at a recent meeting, resolved to support only such candidates for office who might pledge themselves as in favor of the eight hour labor system, and those who approve the passage of a law by the Legislature to regulate this matter. It appears, however, that subsequently this resolution was reconsidered and dropped, for the reason that a split among the various associations was apprehended fromit. Another resolution has been passed, to the effect that each nember shall be ellowed to dispose of his vote in accordance with the promptings of his own judgment. The associations intend to petition the Legislature to pass a law to regulate the hours constituting a day's labor.

NEWS FROM TEXAS.

Anticipated Negro Insurrection in the Planters Sending their Familie and Valuables into the Garrisoned Towns, &c.

The steamship Wilmington, from Galveston on the 18th inst., has arrived at this port. Great apprehension is felt throughout Texas, especially in the eastern districts, of negro disturbances about Christmas time. A general impression prevails among the freedmen that the lands of their former masters will then be divided among them. The planters, fearing commotions, are hastily sending their cotton and other valuables, together with their wives and families, into the scaport and garrisoned towns. It is expected that by Christmas time the open country will be abandoned by almost the entire white population. Many families have already moved seaward.

THE BROOKLYN TRAGEDY.

Convales and Politeer Indicted for Mul. der in the First Degree.

In the case of Gonzales and Pellicer, in custody for the murder of Jose Garcia Otero, which was before the Grand Jury of Kings County yesterday, eight witnesses were examined, and the jury returned a true bill for murder in the first degree against the prisoners. The prisoners will be arraigned before the Court of

The Coroner's investigation in the matter, which wa set down for two o'clock yesterday afternoon, was post-poned in consequence of the absence of witnesses and

The mortal remains of the unfortunate victim of the City Park tragedy were deposited yesterday in the vault at the Cemetery of the Holy Cross, Flatbush, L. I. The ceremonies and procession were unusually impressive, and the excitoment which has prevailed in Brooklyn and Williamsburg since the murder seemed to have reached its climax at the Church of Our Lady of Mercy on Debevoise street, where the solemn requiem services were being chanted over the body. From an early hour large crowds assembled at the church, the Forty-fourth pre-cinct station house, and the house in which the body was lying. Around the church in particular the throng was immense. A swaying mass of human beings covered every available spot for blocks around, even to the lamptake of the thrifty gas purveyors of Brooklyn, stood in that remote district. The greater portion of the as-semblage was composed of the fair sex, all of whom expressed the deepest commiseration for the generous and good natured Spaniard so cruelly assassinated by conveyed in a hearse to the church, escorted by a detachment of one hundred police from the various Brooklyn precincts, all under the command of Captain Waddy. On reaching the church the police formed on the sidewalk in two lines, between which the coffin was borne to the altar by six men who participated in the arrest of Pellicer and Gonzales. When the coffin was deposited in the place prepared for it the funeral services, according to the ritual of the Catholic Church, commenced. The Misersee was sung by the choir, when the officiating clergyman, the Rev. Mr. McKenna, with cross bearer and acolytes, met the corpse at the door of the church. The Rev. Mr. McKenna delivered an address to the vast congregation, the subject of which was the uncertainty of human life. He was assisted in the ceremonies by the Rev. Dr. Gardner and Rev. Mr. Carroit. When the body was brought outside the church it was hid on two pedestals for some time, in order to afford the people an opportunity of gazing on the uncovered face of the dead man. The coffin was made of resewood, and bore the inscription, "Jose Garcia Otero, died November 22, 1896." The coffin was then placed in the hearse, and the funeral procession moved forward towards the cemetery. Soldom has any funeral in Brooklyn been attended with more solemnity or excitement. There were sixteen carriages, centaining the principal Spanish residents of New York. The police formed a guard of honor, and accompanied the cortege to the outskirts of the city. They then halted, and remained standing in two lines, with heads uncovered, until the last carriage passed. It was a tribute of respect which elicited the warmest acknowledgments from the countrymen of the murdered man. The entire police programme, arranged and carried out by Captain Waddy, reflected the Nighest credit on the Department.

THE CROWD.

There could not have been less than five thousand people present, and each face was blanched with an expression of mingled horror and pity as the line of mourners went by. There are some circumstances attending this deed of blood which rendered it one of intense yet horrible interest, and the full, detailed accounts of it given in the Herald have caused it to be the principal or rather only topic of conversation for the past week. At the cemetery the body was laid in the vault without any religious ceremonies being performed. The cold, bitter November blast sighing through the leadess trees around the little church in the cemetery was the only dirge sung there to the memory of the decessed. A knot of his darkeyed countrymen was congregated around Mr. Cuyas who repeated to them for the last time the oft told story of blood. In conclusion he said:

GENTIEREN—Amidst all the circumstances of the sad event which brings us to this sacred spot one thing is very gratifying and worthy of the highest praise, and that is the way in which the whole matter has been conducted by the authorities of this city. We have to thank heartily the police force in general, and Captain Waddy in particular, for the activity displayed in the capture of the murderers and the honors paid to the deed, which are the more praiseworthy as the victim was a foreigner in this country. I wish I could explain this feeling to themsoives; but, since they are not present, I hope the Spanish Consul will give them our most fervent thanks. To the public in general we are greatly indebted for the deep interest they have shown towards the poor victim of this strocious deed, and we, in representation of the Spanish people, most ardently acknowledge their kind conduct. I have to thank you also for your attendance and show of sympathy for the late Mr. Otero, whose family I have the honor to represent on this occasion.

Dr. Sayre said that inasmuch as the newspapers had teemed with communications on the subject of cholera, and many of them animadverting on the action of the board, he wished to vindicate from the highest authority the propriety of the course pursued by the Communications had been sured by names to which the letters M. D. had been sured by names to which the letters M. D. had been sured by names to which the letters M. D. had been affixed; and in some of them those letters might stand for Mad Doz, or Muddled Dotard, to judge from the want of science and common sense they displayed. He felt it was due to the public to know what had been done by the Commissioners, and that they had been guided solely by the best sources of information on which they could have grounded their action. They were bound to do so when an influential body of citizens had given attention to contradictory and absurd theories on the subject. Dr. S. then road from the statements of Dr. Post, one of the medical advisers of the Department of Hyzeine of the Citizens' Association, in which he asserts that a general impression prevails that the medical profession do not know the causes of cholera or its treatment, whereas not disease was better undorstood by the profession. As to its cause, there were two elements: first, an epidemic influence, of which we are ontirely ignorant; second, as to the agency by which it is transmitted we are unacquainted. After traing the history of the disease, Dr. Post advised that the wealthy and influential classes should stay at home for two reasons: first, to inspire public confidence, and second, to give advice to the medical profession. Dr. Sayre said the first reason stated was proper, but the second was entirely absurd and an insult to the medical profession. Amarolis, Md., Nov. 26, 1866.

A match game of base ball was played here to day between the Nautical Base Ball Club, of the Naval Academy, and the Amapolis Base Ball Club, of the Naval Academy, and the Amapolis Base Ball Club, of Annapolis, and resulted in the defeat of the citizens' club, by fifty-two to ten. The midahipmen composing the Nautical Club possess rare ment as players; and although all are under the age of eighteen, a little practice will enable them to defy the best clubs of the country. The defeated club is composed of men between the ages of twenty and forty, and though they showed decided good playing they were unable to cope with the extraordinary skill manifested by the Mids.

Several distinguished persons were present, including Admiral Porter and lady.

Another match game will take place between the same clubs on the 7th of December. The organization of the Nauticals marks a new era in the history of base ball playing, and the Atlantics may find a disputant for the claim of champion club. BASE BALL MATCH AT ANNAPOLIS, MD.

A Marriage is Often the Result of the most frifling incident. Men and women do not know why they fall in love. Passion, not reason, guides them. Men admire neatness in a woman, and are won by the little arts and graces which adorn and refine life, and men judge of a woman by the taste she exhibits. A young lady who use the EGYPTIAN LOTUS is sure to be set down as a lady of sense and refined taste; a senable young man would want no better evidence of her qualification for a wife.
